Tonight is our Annual Open House and there’s still time to RSVP!

Spring is in the air and SAF is gearing up for a whole new crop of programs. March is the only month when we do our intensive annual tour guide training so if you are a self-proclaimed architecture fanatic and would like to share passion for architecture with others we strongly encourage you to sign up! We are also gearing up to launch our 2018-2019 tour season so stay tuned for a fresh selection of tours.

Tonight!
Annual Open House and Bill Strong Awards for Volunteer Excellence
February 27, 2018
6:00 - 8:00 PM
At the Center for Architecture and Design

Be sure to join us tonight for our Annual Open House. Whether you’re a seasoned volunteer or simply interested in learning more about SAF’s programs this is the perfect event for you. Volunteering in SAF’s programs builds leadership and confidence and is a terrific way to give back. Volunteers are the heart of everything we do and play a role in delivering all of our programs and events. Tonight, you’ll be able to meet and connect with SAF volunteers and staff, get the scoop on what we do, enjoy a swingin’ shindig and Shape Seattle!

*This event is free, and includes food and beverages, but please RSVP so we know you are coming.

It's Not to Late to Sign up for Spring tour guide training!
March 17, 2018
At the Center for Architecture and Design
Registration open now!

Are you interested in becoming a tour guide for SAF? Our tour guide training only takes place once a year and you must attend the all-day training and participate in two training tours to become a tour guide. This year in addition to our regular tour guide training we will be doing a special training for volunteers interested in leading Youth Tours. Youth Tour volunteers should have some availability during the weekday to lead tours for school field trips.
