Mike Calkins

Principal
Mint Design, Inc.

Mike Calkins is a 27 year design veteran. His strength is the ability to articulate the essence of a brand and to translate that into high-value creative. Mike spent five years at Urban Outfitters using his eye for market trends to fuel a period of rapid growth for the company. His astute design and art direction also helped to launch the successful clothing retailer, Anthropologie. With a broad corporate and retail background, Mike understands the nuance involved in designing for companies of all sizes. Past clients include Leatherman, MTV Networks, Buck Knives, RIO fly lines, Sage, Redington, Nike, adidas, Columbia Sportswear, Pyramid Breweries, Coca Cola, Target and Hilliard's Brewery.

David Windham Goldberg

Senior Planner
City of Seattle

David Goldberg is a Senior Planner at Seattle's Department of Planning and Development. Over the past 20 years, he has managed dozens of community-based plans and park projects including Seattle's pioneering neighborhood plans and light rail station area plans. David's passion is how people and places shape each other. Currently he is focusing on integrating health and equity into Seattle's planning in order to identify areas where community initiatives or city actions can improve community health, and where health-promoting assets of a community can be strengthened. David has a BA from Wesleyan University, and a Masters in Urban Planning from the University of Washington. David is managing the ongoing Ballard Urban Design project that will provide a vision and strategies to shape growth and guide new development.

Adam Robbings Co-founder & Brewmaster
Reuben's Brew

Since moving from the UK in 2004, Adam was blown away by the diversity and quality of the brews in the Pacific Northwest. As a home brewer, Adam and Grace poured their beer at the 2010 PNA Winter Beer Taste and won First Place in the People's Choice. Then the brewing bug took over and Adam continued to hone his craft and he won several more awards, including a Silver Medal at the 2012 National Homebrew Competition, and attended UC Davis. This all led to the desire to share his brews with more people and the opening of Reuben's Brews in August 2012..

Kendall Jones

Writer & Founder
The Washington Beer Blog

Kendall Jones is a freelance writer based in Seattle, WA. While most people know him as the primary author of the Washington Beer Blog, he also writes beer and travel stories for print publications. Increasingly, he is called upon to write about his other areas of expertise, primarily travel, food and wine. He also has broadcast experience and has appeared on radio and television to talk about beer. Kendall's work has appeared in numerous magazines including Seattle magazine, Sip Northwest, Outdoors Northwest, Beer West, Beer Advocate and 425 magazine, has appeared on KIRO 97.3, KUOW, NBC's Today Show, BBC1 radio, and others, and has an online presence through the Washington Beer Blog, WashingtonBeer.com, Seattle P-I, Go West USA, and many others. In addition to writing about beer, Kendall has been available to host corporate and private beer tasting events for numerous companies, organization or party. Along with his wife and business co-founder, Kim Sharpe Jones, he produces and hosts Craft Beer + Food, Seattle's premier food and beer pairing event, and is a staunch advocate of pairing fine foods with the best available beers.

Renee Martin

Vice President
Ballard Historical Society

Enamored by the charms of the old world, Renée is an advocate for preserving Ballard's unique history. A Pacific Northwest native with Scandinavian heritage, she has worked, lived and traveled abroad, but has chosen Ballard as her home. In 2005, she started the process of preserving her 1911 house in the Bow Addition. Renée studied the history of art and has worked extensively with photography archives. She knows her way around a church, has been known to enjoy a Belgian White with coriander and relishes the more irreverent aspects of history. By day, Renée works for a start-up division of FareStart where she helps fight poverty on a national scale. By night, she celebrates the history and culture of Ballard as Vice President of the Ballard Historical Society.
